

Paul Zwiethnig-Rotterdam: Painting Sculpture Projects/Malerei Skulptur Projekte 1953-2004 (German Edition)

The first retrospective of the New York resident, Austrian-born artists work over the past half-century. Paul Rotterdam was born in Vienna and emigrated to the U.S. in the 1960s. Thematically as well as technically, Rotterdam can be called an abstract expressionist. But looking beyond the delicate steeliness of his canvases, which are reminiscent of Rothko, Kandinsky, Klee and Mondrian, the influence of nature and landscape is readily apparent. A member of the New York School his paintings are part of the permanent collections of the great New York collections in the Museum of Modern Art and the Metropolitan. This monograph displays Rotterdams creative journey, in which he has found the fragile balance between emotion and reason, imagination and form.
